OBAMA COMMUTES MANNING SENTENCE

In one of his final acts before leaving office, President Barack Obama commuted the prison sentence of Chelsea Manning, the former U.S. military intelligence analyst behind the biggest breach of classified materials in U.S. history, the White House said. Manning has been a focus of a worldwide debate on government secrecy since she provided more than 700,000 documents, videos, diplomatic cables and battlefield accounts to the anti-secrecy group WikiLeaks — a leak for which she was sentenced to serve 35 years in prison. Manning, formerly known as U.S. Army Private First Class Bradley Manning, was born male but revealed after being convicted of espionage that she identifies as a woman. REUTERS

BRITAIN TO LEAVE EU SINGLE MARKET

Britain will quit the EU single market when it leaves the European Union, Prime Minister Theresa May said, in a decisive speech that set a course for a clean break with the world's largest trading bloc. Setting out a vision that could determine Britain's future for generations, May answered criticism that she has been coy about her strategy with a 12-point plan toward what has been dubbed a "hard Brexit." May promised to seek the greatest possible access to European markets, but said Britain would aim to establish its own free trade deals with countries far beyond Europe, and impose limits on immigration from the continent. For the first time, she acknowledged that those measures would require withdrawing from the market of 500 million people, founded on principles of free movement of goods and people. REUTERS

WAL-MART PLEDGES TO KEEP HIRING PACE IN US

3 Wal-Mart Stores Inc. will create about 10,000 jobs in the United States this year as part of a previously announced plan, it said on Tuesday, as President-elect Donald Trump puts pressure on companies to hire more U.S. workers. The world's largest retailer joined companies like General Motors Co. and Amazon.com Inc., which have rushed to announce their plans to add U.S. jobs. Trump, who takes office on Friday, has repeatedly singled out and criticized U.S. companies across industries for not doing more to keep jobs in the United States. REUTERS

SEARCH FOR MH370 PLANE CALLED OFF

4 The deep-sea search for missing Malaysia Airlines flight MH370 ended on Tuesday without any trace being found of the plane that vanished in 2014 with 239 people on board, the three countries involved in the search said. The location of Flight MH370 has become one of the world's greatest aviation mysteries since the plane, a Boeing 777, disappeared en route to Beijing from the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur. "Despite every effort using the best science available ... the search has not been able to locate the aircraft," Malaysian, Australian and Chinese authorities said in a statement. "The decision to suspend the underwater search has not been taken lightly nor without sadness." The last search vessel left the area on Tuesday, the three countries said. REUTERS

The red borough

Although Staten Island typically votes Republican, Trump's support there was extraordinary — 57 percent of the vote went to Trump. Citywide, Trump earned only 18.4 percent of the vote.

Hamilton who? Inauguration tickets are hottest score on Staten Island

Rep. Dan Donovan created a ticket lottery to accommodate the demand in his district.

AMANDA MIKELBERG
@MetroNewYork
amanda.mikelberg@metro.us

Watch out, Melania! Donna Fagan from Staten Island is coming to the inauguration in a custom-made dress that attests to her adoration of the incoming president.

"I took some plastic signs from the campaign office after the election was over and had my friend from FIT whip up this number," said Fagan, referring to the Fashion Institute of Technology. Fagan won tickets to Donald Trump's inauguration in Congressman Dan Donovan's ticket lottery. She's not sure how close she'll be standing to President Trump in her plastic dress, but she doesn't care.

"As long as I can hear it, and as long as I can feel it — and I already feel it, I'm getting a little bit of the chills thinking about it," she said. "It's important just to be there."

Congress members are considered hosts of the inauguration and were each allotted a certain number of tickets to the affair. To make distribution fair, Donovan's office created a ticket lottery on their website.

Donovan is the sole Republican Congressman in New York City. Staten Island, which is included in his district, was the only borough to give Trump a majority of the votes cast.

Donovan's office had to make special accommodations for his constituents' overwhelming interest in witnessing Trump sworn into office on Friday.

By Dec. 21, they had more than 2,000 raffle entries for only about 100 tickets. To scrounge up a few more, Donovan's staff called up Democratic counterparts in less enthusiastic districts. Contributions from Reps. Jerry Nadler and Nydia Velazquez — both of whom are boycotting the inauguration — brought the total to over 200 tickets, Donovan's Press Secretary Alexia Sikora said.

"Some of my colleagues were generous to add some extra tickets," Donovan, who came to office 20 months ago, told Metro. "This is history we are going to witness on Friday. So many people wanted to go. In recent memory, there hasn't been so many people here this excited about a change in administration."

Staten Island's Trump

fandom is "reflective of the feelings that a lot of America had when President Trump made his campaign slogan 'Make America Great Again,' that they didn't think the country was as great as it could be," he said. "They couldn't afford their mortgages, couldn't afford tuition, department to be reimbursed for securing Trump Tower.

"It rests on my shoulders," he said. "More than reaching across the aisle it's actually convincing my side of the aisle, and the Republican appropriation committee, that this is more expensive than Republican president, it's a powerful and responsible position."

To the 53 Democratic Congress members who are declining to attend the inauguration, Donovan proposes peace.

"I hope beginning noon on Friday everyone realizes the politics are over and the election is over and it's time to govern," he said.

Fagan, a longtime political volunteer — who fed Trump campaign staff with trays of lasagna and baked hams — said Trump is a true patriot, cut from her cloth.

"He speaks New York. He speaks my language," she said. "Local boy does good. He's right to the point and gives the answer, he says what he has to say and moves on."

Donovan agreed. "Some of the love is him being a New Yorker. It's hometown pride," he said.

couldn't afford health care after the 'unaffordable health care act.' It hit a nerve with people I represent."

Donovan said that a lot of his work to be done is to unite interests across political lines. For example, advocating for the police securing Obama's residence in Chicago. President Trump lives on the second busiest intersection in the world.

City officials tell Staten Island woman to get rid of Wilbur

After five years, Cristy Matteo must find a new home for her pet pig.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
@MetroNewYork
nikki.mascali@metro.us

Five years after bringing her pet pig home from a Utah breeder, Cristy Matteo of Staten Island is being forced to give him up by the end of the month.

"Someone called 311 on me, that's how this whole thing started," Matteo told SILive.com on Sunday. "Almost five years, and I never had a problem."

In addition to marsupials, sea mammals and many lizards, most farm animals are banned in New York City. Matteo had a case for "harboring a wild animal" dismissed in May, but was later back in court when the city Department of Health and

Wilbur has resided on Staten Island for about five years. SILIVE.COM

Mental Hygiene said that Wilbur needed a rabies shot to continue living in her Great Kills home.

While she did get the 180-pound pig the rabies shot, the FDA doesn't have an approved pig vaccination for the disease. "There is no documented case of a pig getting rabies," Mat-teo said.

Rabies cases in pigs are extremely rare in the USA, according to the North American Pet Pig Association's website. Because most exposure to the disease would come from a run-in with infected wildlife such as skunks or raccoons, "pigs housed indoors are extremely unlikely to be exposed to the rabies virus if the other feline and canine household pets have been properly vaccinated."

Wilbur lives alongside Matteo's dog, Milo. In addition to being a family pet, he's also been designated an emotional support animal by the National Service Animal Registry as he comforts Matteo's father, who is battling cancer.

Still, Wilbur has until Jan. 31 to move out, and if inspectors come to her home and he's still there, "they'll seize him," Matteo said. "If they seize him, I'm afraid they will kill him."

Matteo said a North Carolina refuge has offered to take Wilbur in, but she's hopeful he can stay home.

"The only thing I ask is that people just try to help me save my pig and come up with any kind of solution," Matteo said.

Smoking could be $2.3M habit, analysts say

Smokers who want to kick their dirty little habit in the new year might find an incentive in a study released Tuesday that reveals just how much they're paying per pack.

Personal finance site WalletHub crunched the numbers across the country, and found pack-a-day smokers can pay up to $2.3 million over a lifetime for health care, lost income and, of course, the habit.

In New York state, a single pack of cigarettes can range from $10 to $13. To light up a whole pack each day over the course of 51 years, a New Yorker can expect to shell out just shy of $200,000 for cigarettes.

If smokers took that cash and instead invested in the stock market over 51 years, they would've earned back a whopping $1.6 million.

New Yorkers pay the highest excise tax on cigarettes at $4.35 per pack. Residents in New York City can add an additional $1.50 on top of that.

But those Northeast states also see the lowest rates of smoking, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC).

Man sues over false arrest, racist taunts

The 35-year-old was taken into custody after a computer glitch showed he had a warrant for failing to pay a skateboarding ticket.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
@MetroNewYork
nikki.mascali@metro.us

A black Army veteran who was falsely arrested in August because of a computer glitch spent a night in jail listening to racist comments from his white arresting NYPD officer, a new lawsuit alleges.

Najja Plowden says he was walking his dog in Brower Park in Crown Heights after dark that evening when two NYPD officers in a van began questioning him.

Officer Nicholas Loweth allegedly asked Plowden for his identification, which the 35-year-old did not have. Loweth ran Plowden's name in the NYPD's system, and a warrant from a 2013 skateboarding summons came up.

Plowden informed the officer that the warrant and summons were dismissed in May, but was told that he was going to be arrested. After police dropped his dog off at his home, Plowden was taken to the 77th Precinct.

While he was in custody, Loweth made racially charged comments to Plowden, including saying that he "wouldn't have been stopped and detained if you'd been a white guy in a park at night on the Upper East Side," the lawsuit filed in Brooklyn Federal Court on Friday alleges.

Plowden told the New York Daily News that the night he was arrested, there had been a white man in the park playing with his dog nearby. He also said there were no signs saying that the park was closed.

Plowden's lawsuit also claims that Loweth made pro-Donald Trump comments and said the president-elect would end welfare used by "ghetto" residents and "the abuse of resources" such as food stamps in minority neighborhoods.

The lawsuit also confirmed that a judge did dismiss Plowden's 2013 summons and warrant, but the computer system had not been updated.

Due to his arrest, Plowden, an Army veteran who served in Afghanistan and works as an occupational therapist for special-education students, has been declared ineligible for work while the Department of Education examines his case.

"I've always treated officers with respect," Plowden said. "I never thought this would ever happen to me."

Loweth and the NYPD declined to comment on the matter, according to the Daily News, and a spokesman for the city's law department told the paper that the lawsuit "will be reviewed once we are served."

HUMAN REMAINS FOUND

Human torso, leg found in Bronx garbage facility: NYPD

A female torso and leg were discovered inside a Bronx waste transfer station early Tuesday morning, the NYPD said.

Employees of the Metropolitan Transfer Station at 287 Halleck St. in Hunts Point made the discovery around 4:42 a.m., as they moved garbage into trucks from the facility, PIX11 reported.

Operations at the transfer station, which collects, destroys and processes garbage from all over the city, were halted as police combed the area for evidence.

The remains have not been identified, and police are awaiting the cause of death to be determined by the medical examiner, the department said.

REAL ESTATE

Trump's childhood home put up for auction in New York City

A house on a leafy New York City street where President-elect Donald Trump lived as a toddler is being auctioned off by a fellow real estate investor who bought it just last month.

An auction firm was accepting sealed bids through 4 p.m. on Tuesday for the five-bedroom, Tudor-style home in the borough of Queens where Trump lived until age 4.

The winner of the auction would not immediately be known because the seller plans to consider the bids for as long as a few days, Misha Haghani, a principal at Paramount Realty USA, told Reuters in an email.

Trump, whose official residence will be the White House once he is sworn in as president on Friday, has said that he would like to own his old home.

Shown a photograph of it in September while on "The Tonight Show," Trump told host Jimmy Fallon: "Oh, that's sad to look at that. I want to buy it. I want to buy it."

Representatives for Trump could not immediately be reached on Tuesday.

Paramount Realty USA markets the property as Trump's childhood home and as a chance to own a piece of history. Built around 1940 by Trump's father, the real estate magnate Fred Trump, the house has a five-car driveway, a fireplace, a sun room and a paneled study.

Real estate investor Michael Davis purchased the house in December for $1.39 million, according to property records. He did so sight-unseen, without even driving by the house, the New York Post reported.

Haghani declined to speculate on a possible winning price. Offers needed to be accompanied by a deposit of 10 percent. REUTERS

Sen. Chuck Schumer GETTY IMAGES

Sen. Schumer to Trump: Don't fire US consumer agency's head

By law, the president can only fire the agency's director for cause, but a recent federal court decision says the U.S. chief executive should be able to dismiss the director at will. That decision has been stayed pending appeal.

One of the most powerful Democrats in the U.S. Congress on Tuesday pressed President-elect Donald Trump to keep the consumer financial watchdog agency's current director, as rumors about a possible termination and replacement swirled.

Senate Democratic leader Chuck Schumer told reporters that Trump will break his campaign promise of "standing up for workers and consumers against the rigged system" if he fires the U.S. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's (CFPB) director, Richard Cordray, after taking office on Friday.

"If Trump intends to keep any of his promises and unrig the system, he would keep Rich Cordray," the senator from New York said in a phone call with reporters.

Created in the 2010 Dodd-Frank Wall Street reform law, the CFPB has battled all sorts of lenders through regulation and litigation. It most recently participated in a settlement with Wells Fargo for $190 million for allegedly creating ghost accounts.

Some want Trump to not wait for the appeals court and fire Cordray for cause as soon as he becomes president. At the earliest, the full U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit is expected to announce in February whether it will review the case.

Last week, Trump met with one of the agency's biggest critics, former Republican Representative Randy Neugebauer of Texas, who is frequently mentioned as a top choice for to replace Cordray.

Conservatives say Neugebauer would limit the reach of the CFPB, which they say has gone too far and does not have enough accountability. Congress is controlled by the Republican Party, and most Republicans would prefer having a commission in charge of the agency, instead of a director who both creates and enforces rules. REUTERS

Russia says it's ready to talk to Trump about nukes, Syria

Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov GETTY IMAGES

Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov said on Tuesday that Moscow was ready to talk to President-elect Donald Trump's new administration about nuclear weapons and Syria, saying the two countries could together solve many of the world's problems.

Lavrov, speaking days before Trump's inauguration, used an annual news conference to flag potential areas of cooperation and to belittle what he described as malicious attempts to link Trump to Russia in a negative light.

Trump, who has praised President Vladimir Putin, has signaled he wants to improve strained ties with Russia despite U.S. intelligence agencies alleging the Kremlin chief ordered a cyber campaign to help him beat rival Hillary Clinton to the White House.

Russia denies it tried to sway the U.S. election by hacking or other means. It has also dismissed as a fabrication a dossier written by a former officer in Britain's Secret Intelligence Service, MI6, which suggested Moscow had collected compromising information about Trump.

Lavrov dismissed the dossier's author, Christopher Steele, as "a fugitive charlatan from MI6" and said the dossier looked like part of a campaign to cause problems for Trump and his allies. Putin on Tuesday called the same dossier a hoax.

While cautioning that the new U.S. administration would need to settle in before wider conclusions could be drawn, Lavrov signaled he was encouraged by the tenor of the Trump team's statements so far which he said suggested it would be possible to have a pragmatic relationship.

"By concentrating on a pragmatic search for mutual interests we can solve a lot of problems."

"Trump has a particular set of views which differ a lot from his predecessor," said Lavrov, who accused the Obama administration of wrecking cooperation across a swath of areas and of trying to recruit Russian diplomats as agents.

"By concentrating on a pragmatic search for mutual interests we can solve a lot of problems."

He said Syria was one of the most promising areas for cooperation, saying the Kremlin had welcomed Trump's statement that he wanted to make fighting global terrorism a priority.

"What we hear from Donald Trump [on Syria] and his team speaks to how they have a different approach [to Obama] and won't resort to double standards," said Lavrov.

On Syria, Lavrov said representatives from the new U.S. administration had been invited to take part in peace talks slated for Jan. 23 in Kazakhstan.

He hoped U.S. officials would attend, he said, as that would be the first opportunity for Moscow and Washington to start talking about closer Syria cooperation. REUTERS

Iraqi forces push Islamic State further back in Mosul

Iraqi special forces pushed deeper into Islamic State-held districts in eastern Mosul and army units fought the insurgents inside a military base in the city's north, officials said during the day on Tuesday.

On Tuesday evening, Prime Minister Haider al-Abadi said the military had begun "movement" against Islamic State in the west of Mosul without specifying what action was being taken there.

Three months after the start of the U.S.-backed campaign, Islamic State has been driven out of about three quarters of the eastern districts of its Iraqi stronghold, ceding large areas along the Tigris River, which bisects Mosul from north to south.

Renewed military progress has been made in the last two weeks, thanks to improved tactics and coordination between different military units, U.S. and Iraqi military officials said.

Advances slowed toward the end of last year as the military tried to avoid hitting civilians, they say, but now the capture of the entire east bank is imminent and will allow attacks in the city's west, still fully held by the militants.

Rapid response units of the Iraqi federal police have secured many southeastern districts along the Tigris, spokesman Lieutenant-Colonel Abdel Amir al-Mohammedawi, said.

Iraq's elite Counter-Terrorism Service, which has spearheaded advances inside Mosul, holds large sections of the east bank further north from where the federal police operate.

Some Islamic State fighters had fled by boat across the river, taking civilians as human shields, Mohammedawi said.

THOUSANDS of knee arthritis sufferers flock for this advanced medical

Knee Arthritis Pain

Why patients come from Brooklyn, Queens, Long Island, the Bronx for this arthritis pain treatment . . . and why waiting

By Matt Edgar -
America's Health
Writer

NY Pain MD, a center for Non-Surgical Medical Relief For Spine And Joint Pain Relief, is a medical clinic with multiple locations in New York City that has treated thousands of knee arthritis patients. Here is what every knee arthritis sufferer should know about the best treatments and options available today. And why waiting can drastically decrease your chances to live a pain free life again.

The information you are about to read can possibly save you from years and years of agonizing knee pain. It might even keep you from getting total knee replacement surgery. Please pay careful attention.

What you are about to read is a cutting-edge medical treatment... But it is NOT what it appears to be at first glance. In fact, I'm going to have to ask for a bit of patience from you if you have already unsuccessfully tried any (or many) other knee arthritis pain treatments

You see, many knee arthritis sufferers had already tried what seemed to be similar treatments to what we are going to talk about and did not get the results they wanted. But I assure you there is something VERY DIFFERENT about the technology and the way we do this treatment that can possibly make it much more effective for many ... and it often gets results when many others have failed.

This is why patients come from all over the tri-state area and beyond to have their knee arthritis pain treated here.

Would You Like Instant Proof?

If you want instant proof - you can just look at all the actual patient testimonials we have included. These patients were once skeptical just like you ... and are now either pain free ... or eliminated quite a bit of their pain..

Here's the most important thing:

Many said they had seen this information SEVERAL times before finally deciding to take action and give us a call. As you can see - they are happy they did. Once crippled with knee pain, they are playing golf again, dancing again, riding bikes again and going for long walks again.

But We Do Get One Very Common Complaint ... And it is:

"I wish I started this treatment much sooner."

Let's be very clear about this. Time is the most precious thing. There is no way to slow it down - or get any of it back once it's gone.

All the more reason for you to not suffer even one more second than necessary. Missing life while suffering in pain is a tragedy. Isn't it time for you try to get rid of your knee pain and start living the life you want and deserve?

And please understand this: One of the keys to success in medicine is early diagnosis and treatment. Like many diseases, arthritis only gets worse over time. The longer you wait - the more damage to your knee and eventually- the more pain. If you wait "past the point of no return", the entire knee joint can be degenerated and your ONLY option will be total knee replacement.

If you are suffering with knee arthritis pain, here is why you should act NOW:

When you have arthritis, you suffer a decrease in the lubricating fluids in your knee. In other words, your knee joint basically "dries up." The lubricating fluid that decreases is called "synovial fluid". Pharmaceutical companies can now make synovial fluid-like compounds that... during treatment... doctors precisely and directly apply these gel-like medicines into the knee joint. This helps replenish the lubricating fluid to the knee joint - cushioning the knee allowing it to move more freely and smoothly while often decreasing or even eliminating pain.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. In fact, it is impossible to predict results and there are no statistics proving what the "average" patients can expect. Everyone is individual and gets individual results - so we never tell anyone to expect the same results as any of our other patients. But to be 100% clear - many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years ... or even permanently cancel it.

What Are Treatments Like?

Treatments are simple, fast and virtually painless. The total time of the procedure itself is only 10 minutes and you walk out of the clinic just minutes after your procedure with nothing but a one inch band-aid on your knee.

But There Is A BIG Problem. The key is that the treatment must be EXTREMELY PRECISE. Often ignored by many other clinics, if the procedure is just slightly off, the medication will not get exactly into the knee joint and the treatment will not work. That's why the experts at NY Pain MD use what they call "Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology" or P.A.T.T. - so they can confirm the special medicine went directly into the knee joint and not into the surrounding tissues.

Research shows that doctors performing procedures without Precision Arthritis Targeting can miss the joint as much as 30% of the time. If you had viscosupplementation (or Stem Cells or PRP) without the exactness of P.A.T.T. and did not get good results - this may be why.

In fact, by using Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology, NY Pain MD doctors are able to "double confirm" the precise placement of the natural arthritis medicines used. This is to help ensure patients get the best possible results.

Another Important Factor

Viscosupplementation medications also come in several different brands and chemical make-ups. Just like all medications, some people respond better to some than others. While many doctors only use one type or formula, the experts at NY Pain MD use several. And great effort is taken to figure out which is best for YOU.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain

Your Special Invitation

NY Pain MD offers a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis treatment screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get their questions answered and find out if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at NY Pain MD. To schedule a complimentary screening, all you have to do is call 800-227-KNEE. The screenings can fill up fast every month. But, this screening is at no cost and there is no further obligation. Call 800-227-KNEE to schedule your screening. Many of the procedures offered at NY Pain MD are often covered by many insurance plans, union plans, work comp and even traditional & AARP Medicare.

al treatment & how they relieved pain while so many continue to suffer n: The Untold Story

c, Staten Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and beyond can decrease your chance to live a pain-free life again

"I cannot ask for better results"

Dr. Stanley Weiner, M.D. - Surgeon

I had (replacement) surgery scheduled last year. But three months before the surgery I decided to make an appointment with NY Pain MD. I was amazed at the ease with which I was evaluated and the treatment schedule implemented. The results I had at NY Pain MD were outstanding. I cannot ask for better results. After the treatment I was able to go back to work with no discomfort at all. They use a digital monitor to locate the space that they use the treatment for and it's like exact science and I never had to have replacement.

Dr. Stanley Weiner MD

"Hey this feel terrific"

I was diagnosed with bone on bone about 2 years ago I went to see an Orthopedic Surgeon and he said my knees were shot and I need to get them replaced. The NY Pain guys said after looking at x-rays they could help. That procedure is so basic so simple so quick in 15 minutes you are in and out. When I got up out of the chair I stood up and I said, "Hey this feels terrific."

"I don't have any pain any more"

After I had the treatments ... the last tune up ... I just go right to the golf course. I'm able to keep up with these guys who walk - I'm right next to them! My guys on the golf course would say Hey, look at this he doesn't need us to put the ball up any more. When I'm playing on the course I don't have any pain any more I don't have any aches and pain. I'm out there playing!

"I feel like a new woman"

I came to the clinic because I was not sleeping at night. My leg was pounding. There were times when I sat too long the knee would tighten up. I would get in pain and I would be miserable and I would have it for the whole night. After the treatment I goof around with my grandchildren. I feel like a new woman. It's great. I know I don't have to sit on the couch and be in pain and I can just pick up and get dressed and go out. It was so gentle.

"I'm able to do it again"

It got to the point where I couldn't stand up for a period of time and I knew something had to be done about it. You walk into the doctors office - he puts your leg in a machine - he shows you where he is going to do the procedure and before you know it... It's done and you're outta there. Now I'm able to take out my bicycle and we took a couple of rides out in the woods and we had a good time and . . . I couldn't do that for years and now I'm able to do it again.

"I feel like a new woman - It's amazing"

The pain was excruciating like 24/7. Nothing I took over-the-counter would work so I knew it was something more serious. When I saw that my condition was not getting any better, I decided to do something about it and I immediately made an appointment - I went and started treatment. The feeling of getting back to my dancing and my mobility is indescribable. I feel like a new woman - It's amazing.

"I am ecstatic with the results of this procedure"

One day, as I was running, my knee got tighter and tighter. I had to stop and just walk home. They x-rayed me and said I was a candidate for treatment. You sit there for few minutes and then you are up and walking out the door. I am ecstatic with the results of this procedure because I could not run just weeks before. I ran my race without any issues. I felt good - it just opened a door that was closing.

"I Can Finally Live My Life"

Prior the relief center I was taking painkillers and I was becoming addicted to it and it was damaging my health. Since the treatment, I've been able to be less dependent on them. I don't feel helpless anymore. Since going through the procedure I can finally live. I can finally live my life.

Woman sues Trump

At a news conference in Los Angeles announcing the lawsuit on Tuesday, Zervos said she wanted Trump to apologize.

One of about a dozen women who previously accused President-elect Donald Trump of making unwanted sexual advances filed a lawsuit against him in New York on Tuesday, alleging he had made false and defamatory statements about her in rejecting the accusation, causing her emotional and economic harm.

The lawsuit filed by Summer Zervos, a one-time contestant on Trump's reality television show "The Apprentice," is focused on a stream of denials Trump aimed at her and other women accusers last October, just weeks before the Nov. 8 presidential election, when Zervos and others came forward to accuse the then-candidate of making unwanted sexual advances.

At the time the women made their accusations, Trump, a Republican, who went on to win the election and who takes office on Friday, adamantly denied all the accusations in posts on Twitter, statements, interviews and comments at rallies. He suggested at one rally in Charlotte, North Carolina, on Oct. 14 that the accusers were fabricating their stories for publicity or to damage his campaign.

With regard to Zervos specifically, Trump told the rally in Charlotte just hours after she made her allegations that it was "not hard to find a small handful of people willing to make false smears for personal fame, who knows maybe for financial reasons, political purposes," according to the lawsuit.

Zervos

Her lawsuit said she was seeking "all possible remedies," including the apology and retraction, from Trump.

Zervos' attorney, Gloria Allred, a celebrity lawyer who also represents a number of women who have accused comedian Bill Cosby of sexual misconduct, raised the possibility at the news conference that Trump might be required to give a deposition in the case.

The lawsuit said Trump kissed Zervos without her consent at his office in New York in December 2007 and later at a hotel in Beverly Hills, California, kissed her, touched her breast and tried to get her to lie on a bed during a meeting about a possible job.

She and the other women came forward after a video from 2005 surfaced showing Trump boasting of making unwanted advances toward women including grabbing women by the genitals — a video that he later apologized for but said was simply "locker room talk" and was not his actual behavior.

Protests at Goldman Sachs to oppose Trump

Dozens of protesters gathered outside of Goldman Sachs Group Inc headquarters on Tuesday to rally against President-elect Donald Trump's picking several former executives of the Wall Street bank for top jobs in his administration.

Some of the 50 or so protesters wore swamp-monster masks in reference to Trump's pledge to "drain the swamp" that he said Washington has become and get rid of special interests. About 20 of them brought sleeping bags, intending to camp outside 200 West Street until Trump's inauguration on Friday.

Goldman Sachs security guards sent employees and guests to entrances on the north side of the building on the rainy evening as protesters unrolled green sleeping bags on the southwest corner.

In an emailed statement, Goldman Sachs

A demonstrator dressed like a swamp creature holds a sign. GETTY IMAGES spokeswoman Tiffany Galvin said the bank respects "every individual's rights to assembly and free speech."

She declined to comment on the protesters' objections to Trump's nominations of ex-Goldman employees including Steve Mnuchin, Trump's pick to lead the U.S. Treasury Department. Others include Gary Cohn, who had been chief operating officer before becoming Trump's economic adviser, and Dina Powell, who left her position as Goldman's head of philanthropic investing to do the same.

Goldman Sachs had long been viewed as Wall Street's most prestigious and profitable bank with so many executives leaving for high-profile government positions it earned the nickname "Government Sachs." But in the aftermath of the 2008 financial crisis, Goldman instead found itself blamed by politicians and activists for profiting from the implosion of the mortgage market.

In response, the bank embarked on a public relations campaign to clean up its image and launched initiatives to help small businesses, prisoners and female entrepreneurs. But the string of Trump appointments has renewed some of public contempt it received during the Occupy Wall Street protests in 2011. REUTERS

Exercise while voyaging along the Seine

Floating eco friendly gym

Can you imagine how incredible it could be to workout while enjoying a trip on the Seine in Paris? Italian architect Carlo Ratti is trying to turn that idea into reality with his new design, dubbed The Paris Navigating Gym. The eco-friendly vessel is able to sail along the river by harnessing energy produced by exercising passengers.

By exercising on the so-called ARTIS bikes (a bike that gathers energy and stores for later use), guests can contribute to powering the boat. Energy produced by humans will be complemented by photovoltaic cells on the gym's roof. Then, vessel propellers activated with electricity will make Paris Navigating Gym sail along the Seine.

Fla. airport shooting suspect inspired by Islamic State

Santiago was a private first class in the National Guard who served in Iraq from 2010 to 2011.

An Iraq war veteran accused of killing five people at a Florida airport told investigators he was inspired by Islamic State and previously chatted online with Islamist extremists, an FBI agent testified on Tuesday, U.S. media reported.

Esteban Santiago, 26, was ordered held in jail until a Jan. 30 arraignment, court records show. At that time he would enter a formal plea to charges that he opened fire in the baggage claim area of the Fort Lauderdale airport on Jan. 6.

"He has admitted to all of the facts with respect to the terrible and tragic events of Jan. 6," Assistant U.S. Attorney Rick Del Toro said at the federal court hearing in Fort Lauderdale, NBC 6 South Florida television reported. "These were vulnerable victims who he shot down methodically."

Reuters was not immediately able to reach U.S. prosecutors or the Federal Bureau of Investigation to confirm the media reports.

Santiago traveled from Alaska to Florida with a handgun and ammunition in his checked luggage, officials said.

Upon retrieving his gun case from the luggage carousel, he went to a bathroom to load the weapon and then opened fire on others waiting for their bags, investigators said.

FBI special agent Michael Ferlazzo testified Santiago told interrogators he carried out the attack on behalf of Islamic State and that he had been in contact with others on jihadist chat rooms who were planning attacks.

"It was a group of like-minded individuals who were all planning attacks," Ferlazzo said, according to NBC 6.

The FBI has said Santiago previously displayed erratic behavior, entering the FBI office in Anchorage in November and saying his mind was being controlled by a U.S. intelligence agency.

The FBI turned him over to local police, who took him to a medical facility for a mental evaluation, officials said.

Police took a handgun from him but returned it last month after a medical evaluation found he was not mentally ill, authorities said. REUTERS

- I get an extremely painful "cramp" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight- they are all cocked-up, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thick no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottom of my heel hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and scaly- sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rashes, or open sores.

Facebook's virtual-reality tech was not stolen, Zuckerberg testifies

Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg took the witness stand in Dallas federal court Tuesday and denied an allegation by a rival company that the virtual-reality technology of Facebook's Oculus unit was stolen.

ZeniMax sued Oculus in 2014 as Facebook was in the process of buying the startup for $2 billion. The publisher said Oculus unlawfully gained access to ZeniMax's intellectual property while developing the virtual-reality system that includes the Rift headset.

Zuckerberg told a jury in the crowded courtroom that those claims are false. "Oculus products are based on Oculus technology," he said.

Under questioning from ZeniMax lawyer Tony Sammi, the 32-year-old billionaire

Oculus VR headset GETTY IMAGES

"It's pretty common when you announce a big deal that people just come out of the woodwork and claim they own some part of the deal."

Zuckerberg

addressed how Facebook's investment in virtual reality came together. Zuckerberg said the purchase of Oculus included not only the $2 billion price but also $700 million to retain employees and $300 million in payouts for reaching milestones.

Zuckerberg said the Oculus deal was done over a weekend in 2014, which Sammi said in court does not show due diligence.

At the time, Zuckerberg testified, he was not aware of the claims against Oculus.

The lawsuit, in the sixth day of a jury trial, relates in part to programmer John Carmack.

Well-known for helping to conceive games such as "Quake" and "Doom," Carmack worked for ID Software before that company was acquired by ZeniMax. He is now the chief technology officer at Oculus. REUTERS

The Zayn and Gigi engagement rumors have finally begun

To be, or not to be: That is the question. More specifically, to be engaged or not to be engaged. As in, are Gigi Hadid and Zayn Malik for real for real engaged? I have so many questions!

Gigi was spotted wearing a delicate gold band on a very special finger, which has me and Perez Hilton wondering whether things are hashtag happening, or if she's just, you know, wearing a random ring on her left ring finger.

Gigi and Zayn have been dating for about a year and make quite the couple. So let's just see if that little ol' ring stays put amongst these engagement rumors, shall we?

Lindsay Lohan probably didn't convert to Islam, OK?

The artist formerly known as LiLo is at it again.

Over the weekend, Lindsay Lohan scrubbed her entire Instagram, leaving her 5.7 million followers the words: "alaikum salam," an Arabic greeting that loosely translates to "peace be unto you." And if you're thinking: "What even is happening?!" — you're not alone.

Is this simply a break from social media? A cry for attention? Some thrilling combination of both? Hard to say.

In 2014, she described herself to Oprah as a "very spiritual person." And as recently as 2015, Lindsay was carrying around the Quran as a chic-yet-functional accessory. Many are speculating the maybe-former actress has converted to Islam, with some Muslims rallying around the "Herbie: Fully Loaded" star in full support.

Gossip Cop says Lohan's rep confirmed the star has not converted, citing her ex-momager Dina as saying she's just taking a break from that Insta-life — but who knows?

As always, Lindsay Lohan manages to be a half-frown emoji of mystery. Never change, girl.

Amanda Seyfried is very (very) excited about getting hitched

Amanda Seyfried is really, really excited about getting married. Here's a little background presented totally objectively and without comment: According to Lainey Gossip, Seyfried and her now fiancé, Thomas Sadoski, met on the set of an off-Broadway play called "The Way We Get By" in 2015. Thomas was married, but by October of that year, he and his wife were divorced. Thomas and Amanda then worked together on a film called "The Last Word" in early 2016 and — well, the rest is history.

Didn't you know? The couple is happily engaged and expecting. And Amanda is very excited about it.

The actress got candid with Vogue Australia about how pumped she is for her wedding, saying she's "never been excited by anything more in [her] life." She also admitted to feeling a little hesitant about being the center of attention on her wedding day, since she's already "played a bride a billion times" with the glamorous red carpets and Met Galas she's attended. Color me jealous.

Congrats to the happy, very beautiful, also very — let's be real here — photogenic couple.

Ciara says abstinence before marriage was hard

Ciara opened up about her marriage to cutie QB Russell Wilson, admitting that the whole abstinence-before-marriage thing was definitely a challenge.

In February's issue of Cosmopolitan South Africa, the Grammy-winning songstress says it was important to put friendship first as a way to build intimacy. She adds, "Knowing that you'll always have the friendship and that you can always go back to it is very important, and very powerful." The couple announced they were expecting their first child in late October.

It's worth noting, of course, that before her beautiful and very morally upstanding marriage to Russell Wilson, Ciara had a very dramatic courtship and engagement with rapper Future, and he was all kinds of terrible.

So yeah, the whole friendship and intimacy and whatever else is cute and all, but abstinence isn't for everyone Ciara, sorry. Like, if everyone believed in abstinence before marriage, we would only have half of the whole Jolie-Pitt clan, and that would be a real shame.

Nice idea, though.

Greta Gerwig is a California girl

In "20th Century Women," now in theaters, Greta Gerwig plays a photographer who lives in a very progressive commune-style house in 1979 Santa Barbara. A24

The "20th Century Woman" actress may be a New Yorker, but her heart is on the other coast.

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

In "20th Century Women," we see Greta Gerwig as we've never seen her before: With red hair — and a lot less giggly and insecure than usual. The acclaimed actress plays Abbey, a young, serious photographer and cancer survivor who lives in a Santa Barbara house in 1979. Her landlord's (Annette Bening) tenants also include her teenage son (Lucas Jade Zurman), a teenage girl (Elle Fanning) and a 40-something fix-it man (Billy Crudup). The latest from filmmaker Mike Mills ("Beginners"), it finds characters trying to eke by and hang out, unaware of the looming

Reagan '80s.

For one thing, making a movie set in 1979 means you get to do a deep dive in the music from that era, which is some of the greatest, coolest music ever recorded.

I know music pretty well. There were some deep cuts for me, particularly in the punk scenes, like The Raincoats and The Slits. I had heard of them, but I didn't know a lot about them. They didn't feel like they were mine. When I was getting into the character and listening to the music, I really felt like I took ownership of that music that had seemed more oblique to me.

Did you have a favorite among the bands you'd never really listened to before?

I'm all for The Raincoats. They're great. I can always tell when I love a song if my overwhelming sense

GETTY IMAGES

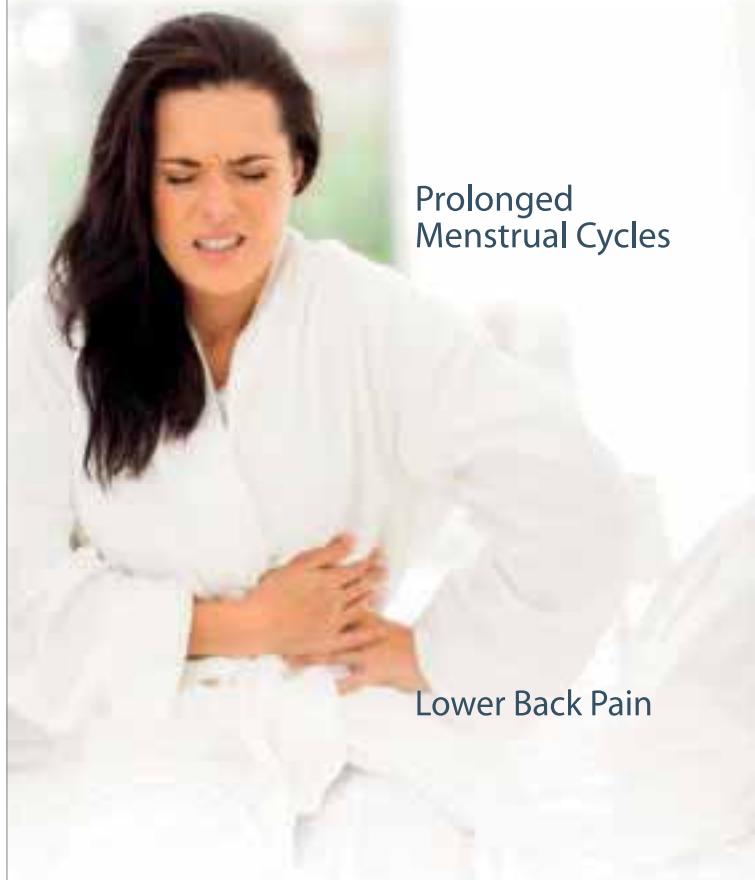

The feminist literature we hear about in the movie is scarily timely, too. A lot of that stuff felt like it could have been written yesterday. It's all the exact same problems. It's not different at all, I'm sorry to report. That was fascinating to put myself in that mind-set, of what it would feel like to encounter these ideas for the very first time.

I love L.A.

This presents a really fascinating portrait of California, too. Even though you're a New Yorker now, you were born and raised there, so it must be particularly resonant. I'm a California girl. My brother's still there, my sister's there, most of my family's there. I'm deeply related to California. It's so odd because I don't think anyone associates me with California. I grew up in Sacramento, and Annette grew up in San Diego. We talked a lot about the peculiarities of California that I think are often missed. When people think of California, they think of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The truth is there's a very deep, very powerful conservative bent that runs through California, in San Diego, in Santa Barbara, in Sacramento. We are the home of Reagan. Joan Didion, when she started, she was conservative, she was a Republican, 100 percent. She thought all that hippie stuff in Haight-Ashbury was ridiculous. That's the side of California that Annette's character is in opposition to. It's something I really understood. I just hadn't had the pleasure of being in a film about that side of California.

Kings of the road

Kings of Leon bring their seventh studio album, "Walls," on tour.

RACHEL RACZA
@rachelracza
rachel.racza@metro.us

Three years after "Mechanical Bull" (and it's charmingly catchy single "Supersoaker"), Kings of Leon timidly re-emerged with their seventh studio album, "Walls." This time, the band — known for their high emotions, both in song and amongst themselves (they're brothers, after all) — worked with Markus Dravs, the UK-based producer known for working his finesse on Florence and the Machine, Arcade Fire, Coldplay and Mumford and Sons. The result is a tight 10-track that dropped in October, trickling out the likes of the unexpected mosey-inducing "Muchacho" and abstractly Springsteen-esque title track, "Walls." "Waste a Moment" and "Find Me" might incite a toe tap to your dad and his friends, but they play just fine by us, too.

We caught up with Jared Followill — the youngest of the Nashville foursome — from Atlantic City, just before the band hits the road for a U.S. tour and the summer festival circuit.

Now that you're in rehearsals and have played the album live — do you notice any of Markus' handiwork coming through on stage?

Maybe, but not obviously. His influences are greatly shown when we play anything from "Walls," but we don't lock ourselves into album tours. We see our live show as a growing thing; it's always been there, we just add to it.

Seven albums in — how are you going to narrow it down?

It's tough. I don't think there's any way to make everyone happy — including us.

One song I'm dying to see live is "Muchacho," just because it's such a different vibe from what we're used to seeing from you.

JIMMY MARBLES

If you go

That, I can say for a fact, will be there. We're running through the set now, and "Muchacho" is something we're excited to play. It's a song that came together late [in the recording process] for us, and there was a weird vision for us. It's like a super bar-band, karaoke-style song. It's somewhat challenging, and it'll be interesting to see how it works out in these arena venues.

Given that you guys are family, do you find you're always being asked about how that plays into your dynamics as a band?

Yeah, and I understand why, but I also know there's no real way for us to answer those questions. None of us have been in other bands. We've only been in a band with our family. So when people ask us if we argue more than other bands, it's like, "We don't know!" [Laughs] It's all we've ever known. There's no other way.

Study abroad

You guys were recently announced as performers at Tinderbox in Denmark — are you excited to be going into festival season this year?

We love European festivals — they have a completely different dynamic. And for us, it's like European band camp, where you see all your friends from the past 15 years.

Is there anything U.S. festivals learn from festivals abroad?
For the most part, festivals in Europe are rowdier. When you're on stage, you want to see people having fun and going crazy. Just like when you're in the audience, you want to see the band give it their all. You feed off each other. And the European festivals are absolutely insane.

THE GREAT DEBATE

Those sports shows where a white guy and a black guy scream at each other while a good-looking brunette female attempts to direct traffic get huuuuge TV ratings for a weekday morning. The noise from ESPN's "First Take" and FS1's "The Undisputed" provides great background sound for gym locker rooms and dentist offices, but it's decidedly unhealthy to, ya know, actually listen to the manufactured things these people are saying. All cynicism and jealousy aside, here's a fun fact about "First Take." Wildly popular host Molly Qerim is dating wildly popular "NBA on ESPN" personality and former NBA player Jalen Rose. How about that?!

UNSOLVED MYSTERY

Pro wrestling legend Jimmy "Superfly" Snuka died on Sunday and WWE ran a tribute to him Monday. What's crazy about this wrestling death is that the 73-year-old Snuka had murder charges dropped against him just two weeks ago as he was deemed not competent to stand trial. A longstanding wrestling rumor was that Snuka murdered his girlfriend in 1983. Snuka's story was that he found his girlfriend, Nancy Argentino, dead in a hotel room with three dozen cuts and bruises. Officials determined at the time that she was hit consistently with a stationary object before dying. File under unsolved mystery that will never be solved.

DEALING DION

Former Eagles line-backer Emmanuel Acho tweeted out during the Patriots-Texans game: "To think, I got traded for #DionLewis back in 2013 ... someone needs to be fired for that. He a beast!" Acho is currently unemployed in football and Lewis had three touchdowns against Houston. Former Browns (and Eagles) executive Joe Banner played along, tweeting at Acho, "I traded you for Dion and got fired. Go figure! Hope you are well." For the record, current Eagles executive Howie Roseman was the one who brought Acho to Philly and shipped Lewis to Cleveland.

NY's Carmelo era may be over soon

Phil Jackson reportedly asked Carmelo Anthony if he still wanted to be a Knick.

TONY WILLIAMS &
MATT BURKE
sports@metro.us

The Knicks are battered and bruised, both physically and in psyche.

Whether it's Kristaps Porzingis and his ailing Achilles, Carmelo Anthony's bruised ego or the faces of key members of the squad, the Knicks (18-24) are spiraling.

It's gotten so bad that Anthony and Knicks president Phil Jackson reportedly met on Tuesday to discuss Anthony's future with the team. Jackson is said to have asked Anthony if he still wanted to be a Knick.

The New York Daily News' Frank Isola reported that Anthony told Jackson he wants to stay, but expect trade rumors to be consistent between now and the Feb. 23 NBA trade deadline.

Meanwhile, Porzingis has missed the last three games for New York — all losses. The second-year forward could've been used on Monday, a 108-107 defeat to the Atlanta Hawks, where both Derrick Rose and Carmelo Anthony both missed point-blank shots at the rim as time expired. The Hawks were without Dwight Howard, which should've boded well for a Knicks squad that was planning on using Porzingis at center some when-ever Joakim Noah needed a breather. But the Latvian sensation was sacked even before pregame warmups by head coach Jeff Hornacek — the sixth time this season that he's missed time nursing the injury. Porzingis was slated to go through shoot-around, but the training staff decided he wasn't ready.

His status for Wednesday night's affair in Boston is still up in the air.

The Knicks have now lost 11 times in their last 13 games, and with a schedule that still has eight games remaining over the next two weeks, the team can either find a way to rally or further slip into despair.

Hornacek is going to need to find a way to rally from within. And for spurts during Monday's matinee, it appeared he found the elixir. He started rookie Mindaugas Kuzminskas and Ron Baker instead of Porzingis and Courtney Lee — and both responded nicely.

Jack Capuano was fired by the Isles on Tuesday. GETTY IMAGES

Islanders fire head coach Jack Capuano

The Islanders are dead last in the Eastern Conference in points and have looked lifeless since Election Day.

Now is as good a time as any to make drastic changes, and the franchise will start to try and return to winning ways first by moving on from head coach Jack Capuano, who was fired Tuesday.

"The New York Islanders would like to thank Jack for his tireless work throughout his seven seasons with the organization as head coach," Islanders GM Garth Snow said in a statement. "His leadership guided the team to the playoffs in three of the past four years, which included two straight 100-point seasons. He is a great coach and an even better person. We wish him nothing but the best moving forward."

According to ESPN's Scott Burnside, Capuano will be replaced on an interim basis by assistant GM Doug Weight, who has served as an assistant coach for the team.

The Isles next play on Thursday, at home against the Dallas Stars.

Aries Don't take action based on assumptions. Learn from your experience and take a disciplined approach in order to make things unfold to your advantage.

Taurus Focus more on what you can do for others without compromising your personal or professional position. Putting in extra hours will lead to unexpected benefits.

Gemini When opportunity knocks, you have to be ready to size up what's being offered and make your move. Don't trust anyone but yourself when it comes to fact-finding.

Cancer When in doubt, take a breather and let the chaos or confusion subside. Pour your attention into self-improvements that will raise your qualifications or skills.

Leo Don't wait for change to happen when you can be the one to initiate what you want to see unfold. Do your part and show your leadership ability.

Virgo Refrain from any inclination you have to take on too much or to overspend. Moderation, hard work and determination will be rewarding. Romance is on the rise.

Libra Stay calm, and refrain from making assumptions or impulsive moves based on information that isn't conclusive. Listen carefully and respond with diplomacy.

Scorpio Avoid anyone trying to use guilt or emotional manipulation to sway you. Stay focused on what's important to you and strive for perfection, satisfaction and success.

Sagittarius You'll face confusion and uncertainty. Don't be fooled by someone trying to persuade you to do something that isn't healthy.

Capricorn Doing too much too fast will jeopardize your chance to improve your life financially, emotionally and physically. Be a leader, not a follower.

Aquarius Make personal changes that will lower your overhead and improve your life. Having more money to pursue what you enjoy doing will brighten the picture.

Pisces Getting angry will not solve your problem, but taking positive action will. Use your intelligence to make a plan that will encourage everyone to pitch in. EUGENIA LAST
